

Privacy veronches Wi-Fi 'some bearing' Line stations ban matter

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 25

THE SUPREME COURT on Friday said its verdict declaring right to privacy a fundamental right will have "some bearing" in matters related to the possession of beef in Maharashtra.

The apex court made the observation while hearing a batch of appeals filed against the Bombay High Court's May 6, 2016 verdict decriminalising the possession of beef in case of animals slaughtered outside the state.

A bench comprising Justices A K Sikri and Ashok Bhushan was informed by an advocate that Thursday's judgement from a nine-judge Constitution bench, declaring right to privacy a fundamental right, was important for adjudication of the appeal.

"Yes, that judgement will have some bearing in these matters," the bench said.

The Supreme Court had on Thursday said "nobody would like to be told what to eat or how to dress" while ruling that these activities come under the realm of the right to privacy.

Senior advocate Indra Jaising, appearing for some of the petitioners, referred to the privacy judgement and said the right to eat food of one's choice is now protected.

The Maharashtra moved the appeal challenging the High Court's verdict striking down Sections 5(d) and 9(b) of the Maharashtra Animals (Amendment) Act, 2015 which criminalised the possession of beef of animals slaughtered in or outside the state.

The court has on the appeal matter along with other pleas related to the high court's judgement, saying it is unconstitutional provisions which have the possession of beef as saying only "consumption" of the meat slaughtered in the state to be an offence.
